METHOD AND DEVICE FOR PROVIDING CONFERENCES

Abstract

5   A control interface is provided between an announcement/dialog function with voice recognition functionality and a conference management function. The conference can be booked and controlled via this interface. In this case, the conference management 10   function receives the data relevant to the conference in a dialog with the conferees, reserves the relevant resources in advance and access the control functions of the conference directly via a further interface.